Title of the almanac.

The city and state where the almanac was printed. Sometimes this is different than the location mentioned by the title.

The printer of the almanac (not necessarily the publisher or author).

The number of leaves in this particular copy of the almanac, followed by the number of leaves that a complete copy of the almanac has. (A "leaf" is one sheet of paper: an almanac with 24 pages has 12 leaves.) If only one number is listed here, the complete number of leaves is unknown.

The reference number from Milton Drake's "Almanacs of the United States" (New York: Scarecrow Press, 1962).
