Biography

Abraham H. Vander Veer was the eighth son of Garret and Rachel (Couwenhoven) Vander Veer. He was born in the town of Root, Montgomery County, New York, June 18, 1804, and died August 19, 1888. He was the father of ten children among them are Albert and Garett Vander Veer, and Esther (Vander Veer) Craig.

Garret Vander Veer was born on August 8, 1836, the fifth child of Abraham and Sarah (Martin) Vander Veer. He was married to Margaret Kline on December 18, 1861 and they had one son, John, who died at an early age. Garrett joined the army and was commissioned as captain of Company A in the 115th New York Volunteers. Over the course of his career, he was stationed at various island forts along the South Carolina coast. He was shot four times at the battle of Olustee, Florida, but refused to be removed for treatment until the battle was over. He was then transported to Beaufort, South Carolina where he died of his wounds on February 24, 1864. At the time of his death he was a newly promoted lieutenant-colonel.

Albert Vander Veer was born in Root, New York on July 10, 1841, the seventh child of Abraham and Sarah (Martin) Vander Veer. At the age of nineteen, he began to study medicine with the local physician Dr. Simeon Snow, whose daughter Margaret he later married on June 5, 1867. When the Civil War broke out, Vander Veer was attending Albany Medical College but withdrew to volunteer for the Army medical division. His first post was the Ira Harris Hospital in Albany. In May 1862, he was assigned to complete his medical training at Columbian College Hospital, now George Washington University, in Washington D.C. where he had enrolled as one of the first hundred medical cadets called to Civil War service by the surgeon general.

Upon completing his requisite coursework for his medical degree, Vander Veer was assigned to the 66th Regimental New York Volunteers as Assistant Surgeon. In June 1864, at the age of 24, Vander Veer became one of the youngest regimental surgeons of the war. During his time with the 66th Regiment, Vander Veer was engaged in the battles of Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, and Gettysburg.

After the war, Vander Veer continued his education with post-graduate courses at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York and a tour of the medical colleges and hospitals of Europe. Upon returning to Albany, he opened a private practice on Jay Street and took up residence at the corner of State and Eagle Streets.

Vander Veer’s experiences in private practice led to an interest in public health issues; he served on Albany’s first Board of Health and Water Board, fighting for closed city sewers, clean drinking water, and other sanitary improvements. He was also one of the major lobbyists behind the construction of the Albany Hospital.

Vander Veer was also concerned with qualifications for practicing physicians. He therefore worked to create legislation designed to create state-wide standards for medical practitioners. In the later part of his life, he was a member of the regulatory commissions he helped to create, serving first as Vice-Chancellor of the State Board of Regents in 1915 and then as Chancellor in 1922.

As part of his commitment to medical education, Vander Veer also served as a professor, and later the dean, at Albany Medical College from 1896 to 1905. He was also an active member of several professional organizations, and was elected President of the American Surgeons Association in 1905 and President of the American Medical Association in 1916. Vander Veer was honored for his achievements as a surgeon, educator, and pioneer of public health by being granted membership within the French Legion of Honor.

Apart from his professional pursuits, Vander Veer was a family man; he had six children, three of whom survived to adulthood. Each of his three sons, Edgar, James, and Albert Jr., became physicians. Vander Veer was also interested in his Dutch Heritage and an active member of the Holland Society of New York. He was awarded the Order of Orange-Nassau by the Queen of Holland. Vander Veer lived a full life, succumbing at the age of 89 on December 19, 1929.
Esther (Vander Veer) Craig was born on January 14, 1830, second child of Abraham and Sarah (Martin) Vander Veer. She was married on June 10, 1852 to John Craig. She had six children, four of whom survived into adulthood.

Marion Mead Craig is the fifth child and fourth daughter of John and Esther (Vander Veer) Craig. She is the niece of Albert Vander Veer.

James N. Vander Veer is the second child of Dr. Albert and Margaret E. (Snow) Vander Veer, and was born December 12, 1877. He is a graduate of Albany Medical College, MD, 1903. He was a distinguished surgeon and widely known urological specialist. He was chief of surgical staff of the Albany Hospital, attending surgeon at the South End Dispensary and Home of the Friendless, and consulting surgeon of the Good Shepherd. He married, December 3, 1908, Ada daughter of Thomas and Cornelia (Quadland) Holt; and had one son, Adrian Holt, born November 4, 1909. He died May 15, 1937 (at the age of 59), after suffering from a heart ailment for about a year.

Scope and Contents of the Collection

This collection is composed of letters written by brothers Albert and Garrett Vander Veer to family members. Garrett and Albert were the fifth and seventh children, respectively, of Abraham Harris and Sarah (Martin) Vander Veer and were officers in the Union Army during the American Civil War. There are thirty-two letters in total written between 1862 and 1864. Twenty-six of these letters were written by Garrett Vander Veer from November 1862 until shortly before his death in 1864; all of these are addressed to his sister and brother-in-law, Esther and John Craig. In his letters, Vander Veer describes Beaufort and Hilton Head, South Carolina, complains about problems with army life and the incompetence of his superior officers, gives a lengthy account of a court martial, and describes troop movements. He also writes of his interactions with the African American troops of the 54th Massachusetts Infantry.

The remainder of the letters was written by Albert Vander Veer and letters are addressed to Esther and John Craig, as well as to his parents, Abraham and Sarah (Martin) Vander Veer. In his letters, Vander Veer also describes troop movements, comments on the state of the Army of the Potomac, and talks about the difficulties he encounters as regimental surgeon. The collection also includes several newspaper clippings about the death of Albert Vander Veer in 1929 and later memorial services. There are also newspaper clippings (a vast majority of which are obituaries) and miscellaneous objects.

Organization of the Collection

This collection is housed within two boxes. Box one has eighteen folders and is divided into three series. Series I, “Letters from Garrett Vander Veer, 1862-1864,” is contained within the first fourteen folders. The next three folders contain Series II, “Letters from Albert Vander Veer, 1863-1864.” The last folder in Box one houses Series III, “Newspaper Clippings.” Box two has 11 folders, all containing materials in Series IV, “Civil War letters written by Garrett or Albert Vander Veer.”
